CORBIN RUSSWIN INTRODUCES NEW DECORATIVE LEVERS TO MUSEO®, PIET LEVER COLLECTION

New Offerings Bring Increased Decorative Suiting Options To ASSA ABLOY's Good Design Studio

BERLIN, CT, July XX, 2012 - Corbin Russwin (www.corbinrusswin.com), a leading innovator and manufacturer of architectural hardware and security solutions for over 160 years and an ASSA ABLOY Group company, announces the addition of two new decorative levers to its Piet Lever Collection in the Muséo line.

The Corbin Russwin Muséo line, which provides designers, architects and end-users with more decorative suiting options, now includes the 21G and 27M levers.

The 21G lever showcases a grooved insert, providing a distinct, contemporary look. This lever suites with Rockwood's LineaMet and LineaTek architectural door pulls and coat hooks as well as McKinney's GT grooved hinge tip.

The 27M lever features two machined bands at the end of the grip, providing a subtle and minimalist detail. This lever suites with Rockwood's new Groove architectural door pulls and coat hooks and McKinney's LT lined hinge tip.

Available in polished or satin stainless steel, these new levers grow the Piet Collection offering from six to eight styles. Both levers are available on exit devices, tubular and mortise locks, and access control and electromechanical products, providing a cohesive overall design. The collection of door hardware is showcased through ASSA ABLOY's Good Design Studio.
